In this example, the comma operator is used to combine the increment operations (a++, b++, c++) into a single statement within the parentheses. The result of the entire expression is the value of the last operand (c++), so `result` is assigned the value of c++, which is 15.